Dynamic Optimization - Homework assignment 8

Christian Segercrantz 481056

February 18, 2022

8.5

Since we know that if we haven't hired a handyperson when the last one enters the office, we will hire him. Thus

$$J_n(x_n) = \begin{cases} t(x_n), \\ 0, & else \end{cases} \tag{1}$$